2017 Frost & Sullivan Asia Pacific CRO Customer Value Leadership Award

Covance is one of the largest and most inclusive drug development service companies globally. The company provides comprehensive pharmaceutical research services from preclinical phase to commercialization and implements market entry strategies for its customers.

Covance is the leading CRO in Asia-Pacific and has established its presence by offering services that meet the demands of healthcare and pharmaceutical companies. Over the past several years, Covance has expanded its regional laboratory facilities and clinical operations to support clinical trials and drug development.

As part of LabCorp, Covance has better access to talented resources and understanding of the clinical laboratories system. The company has developed complete clinical trial solutions for its customers and their combined strength distinguishes the company from competitors in terms of capabilities, experience, clinical drug testing, and development of companion diagnostic services. Together, they generated more than 75% of FDA-approved drugs available and were involved in more than 60 global drug development programs.

Covance is committed to improving the drug development process, lowering drug-related risk, and providing customers with cost-efficient solutions consistent with global standards. The company has 5 ISO 15189-certified central laboratories and offers lab management techniques that ensure accuracy, lower internal resource drainage, and comply with global standards.

The company's competitive advantages include its experienced international management team, world-class facilities in several countries, and a highly educated and trained workforce of about 15,000 employees. The company also has very strong procedures in place to protect customers' intellectual properties.

In recognition of its focus on customer service, solution capabilities, and market leadership in the region, Frost & Sullivan is pleased to present the 2017 Frost & Sullivan APAC CRO Customer Value Leadership Award to Covance (Asia) Pte Ltd.
